WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY, 14, 1900.

THE EXPLANATION IS SIMPLE. The Staunton News seems to be puzzled over the apparent indifference of the free silver Democrats to the passage of a bill by Congress declaring for the gold standard. It says:

If the silver question is still a living issue, there are one or two things we would like some of our silver friends would like some of our silver friends to explain to us.

The House of Representatives at Washington has already passed a bill making the gold dollar the standard, and making every obligation of the government of whatever character redeemable is this gold dollar. The Senate is to vote on the lath of this month on substantially the same bill, and it is known if such a bill reaches the President he will sign it. It is glso quite plain and generally admitted that by no sort of political revolution can this legislation be undone for four and probably six years.

The bill in the Senate is being discussed pro and con, but nobody on one side listens to the speeches on the other side, or even on his own side. There is nobody in the galleries to listen to them. The speeches are not being published in the newspapers, as they would lished in the newspapers, as they would be if anybody cared to read them. The whole thing looks likes a perfunctory, formal affair. If the thing proposed to be done, namely, to enact anto law for good and for keeps the single gold standard, is so vicious and deadly a thing as our silver friends would have us believe, it is strarge they are not crying a warning from the house-tops or at least discussing it on the street corners and in the counity stores where groups do congreture and philosophize. Why this anathy when the deadlest crime of the century, blacker than the "crime of "a." is being perpetrasted? What does it show if not that silver is a dead issue? lished in the newspapers, as they would

The explanation is simple. The Democratic party is so far committed to free coinage of silver at 16 to 1 that the party leaders do not know how to break away from it. Therefore, the convention of this year will re-affirm the Chicago platform, "especially the financial plank," and make another fight for 16 Now, if it were possible, as it was in 1896, for the Democratic party. in the event of triumph at the polls, to put its free coinage declaration into execution, or if it were possible for a Demperatic administration to put the country on a silver basis and so paralyzbusiness, thousands upon thousands of Democrats would refuse to support the ticket, being afraid, in the present condition of prosperlty, to make so dangerous an experiment. But with 16, to 1, scotched by legis atton which cannot in any event, be undone for several years, any declaration which the party may make on this subject will be regarded by many gold Democrats merely as so much language, and will not of itself scare them out of the party, as it did in 1896

The gold standard bill now under discussion in the Senate will be a good campaign document for the Democrats, and the party leaders know it. The Republicans of the Senate Committee see the danger, and are trying to tack on a rider about "international bimetallism." But even that will not hurt it as a Democratic campaign paper. The term, "gold standard," is obnoxious to all 18-karat silverites, and whenever the hateful words ere mentioned in their presence they may be expected to make the welkin ring with their "student yawps" of denunciation. At the same time party men who are opposed to free silver will simply smile and say it's of no consequence.

In these facts our Staunton contemporary will doubtless see the answer to the puzzle. The passage of the gold standard bill will be a very present help to the Democratic party.

A SIGNIFICANT APPOINTMENT.

The resignation of Senator McLaurin, of South Carolina, to accept a place on the new Philippine Commission, is significant. Several months ago the cotton manufacturers of South Carolina addressed an open letter to their senators and representatives in Congress calling their attention to the fact that a large proportion of cotton goods now manufactured by them are marketed in China and urging them to do everything in their power to keep the commercial door to China open.

In reply Senator McLaurin wrote a long letter in which he showed that he was tion under discussion. Of course he and the cotton manufacturers of his Svate are not in favor of imperialism, for they are all good Democrats and they made this quite plain to one another in the correspondence to which we have re-ferred. But these gentlemen all agreed that South Carolina must have foreign markets for her rapidly increasing cotton mill product and that the foothold which she has gained in the East must be protected and strengthened.

We doubt not that Senator McLaurin's views on this subject and the interest which he feels in cultivating the trade fields of the East have had much to do with his appointment to a place on the

The appointment must be most agree able to him, as it will give him excellent opportunity to study the trade situation in the East and he will gain information which will be of great benefit to his constituents in South Carolina.

CURRENT TOPICS.

It has already been mentioned in our news columns that South Carolina has a new "separate coach" law which pro vides, in fact, for separate coaches. The main provision is as follows:

"That all railroads and railroad companies engaged in this State as commoncarriers of passengers for hire shall furnish separate coaches for the accommodation of white and colored passengers: Provided, equal accommodations shall be supplied to all persons without distinction of race, color or previous condition in such coaches: Provided, further, that all first-class coaches shall be provided with a compartment at each end of such concerns and such compart-ments shall be provided with seats for three or more persons. On one compart-ment shall be printed the words 'for females' and on the other 'for males.'

The law further provides for a straight three-cent fare, but the railroads will not be compelled to sell second-class tickets. The other provisions are much the same as those of the Virginia law. At the Monday's session in Washington of the National American Woman Suffrage Association resolutions were adopted reaffirming the principle that "governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed," and calling for the application of the principle to women. Is it true that American women are governed without their consent? Is it true that they are governed at all? Bosh, The women rule this country.

The first arises upon a motion to quash the indictment as having been found upon illegal evidence. It appears that the attorneys for certain creditors of the Wadley Company went before the grand jury by which the indictment was found and presented inadmissible evidence in the form of a densition given by Mr.

and presented inadmissible evidence in the form of a deposition given by Mr. Wadley in a civil case, and the counsel are now insisting that but for this, the indictment would not have been found and should now be quashed.

Secondly, they claim that their client should be forever discharged from custody, for the reason that four terms of the County Court went by after the indictment, without a trial being accorded him. The Commonwealth answers this by saying no trial was had because the accused obtained an injunction from the United States Court, the use of certain evidence in the books and papers of the company.
